Sia's Bad Girls (2008) and "Big Girls Don't Cry" (2009). It is her second highest-selling album, and has sold over one million copies worldwide. It was released in the United States on March 4, 2009 and was released on CD on March 5, 2009 and May 28, 2009 on other formats. On May 28, 2009, the album was released in Germany with the same track listing, but on May 29, 2009 the album was released with new track listing and it was released on May 29, 2009 with the same track listing in the UK and Australia. Recording Sia initially recorded the album in the United States. She said: "I went to record with this guy called David Foster who has just made a few records for Briney, one or two of them, because he's a nice guy and he really cared about what I was doing, and I said, 'Oh, David, I want to do the album in Sydney with you.'" Musically, the album is driven by the bass and synthesizer work of David Foster, and vocal production from Stephen Kozmeniuk, with string arrangements, piano and synth from Isobel Sneddon. The record was mixed by Nick McCarthy. In 2012, Kozmeniuk recalled the album as "very different" from Sia's first two albums. "It was like a serious music album." Sia said of recording, "I wasn't in the best mood the whole time, and it was so difficult because you want to enjoy the process, and it just wasn't coming." Promotion and sales During a radio interview with John Batchelor on John's Show, Sia said she thought the album would only sell about 20,000 copies, and said she expected it to sell well. Sia said the main reason she wrote such emotionally heavy music was to be able to express how she felt. The album's first single, "Day Too Soon", was released on October 9, 2008. A music video was also made for the single, but it was never released. The song peaked at number one on the Billboard Hot Dance Club Songs, but, at the time, it was the highest-selling dance single of 2008. The album's second single, "Titanium" (featuring Nate Ruess) was released on February 19, 2009, and peaked at number one on the Billboard Dance/Mix Show Airplay 82157476af
